DLC

by Mikacrispy

Summary

By some goddamn miracle, streamer KingExplosionMurder got the chance of meeting his idol/crush, Starcraft II Pro-player Deku. And by some even bigger miracle, they began dating.

Press F

However, now Deku invited Katsuki to accompany him for the WCS finals in Korea — and there's only one bed in their hotel room.

Katsuki doesn't think he'll survive this trip. Luckily, he's got a couple of Revive Potions on his bag and a very understanding boyfriend.

Bakugou Katsuki is living the life. He's dating the love of his life, the guy he has crushed on for years through computer screens, and now is allowed to hug and kiss; and his career is finally going the direction he wants. Everything has been going great — until his boyfriend asks one small, unassuming question.

"Kacchan… I know you've been busy, but… What do you think of coming to Korea with me?"

Izuku, as everyone expected, is on the finals of the World Championship Series for Starcraft II that will be held in Korea next month. That's honestly not a surprise whatsoever. Deku is the best player in the world and has held the title of World Champion for an obnoxiously long time. And Katsuki has been going to all his games since they started dating, like the loving and supportive boyfriend he aims to be.

So the question shouldn't have left Katsuki as speechless as it did. Still, it wasn't the question that really knocked the air out of Katsuki's lungs, but its complement.

"I've talked with Ochako to book me a room for two, so you won't need to worry about hotel fees or anything like that. I'm sure Shouto won't mind paying for your plane ticket as well since I can only give good sponsor interviews when you're with me," Deku said with a gentle, innocent smile on his face.

Meanwhile, the thoughts running through Katsuki's head were anything but innocent. He and Deku would be sleeping in the same room. Just the two of them. For a few nights probably, since the finals last two days and they'd probably stay in Korea for a full week to go over interviews, media appearances, and such.

One whole week sleeping in the same room with Izuku — seeing how cute he's when he wakes up, smelling his clean scent when he comes out the shower, hearing his breathing during the night. Katsuki didn't think his heart could handle so much; his dick certainly couldn't.

Don't get Katsuki wrong — there's nothing he wants more than to be by Deku's side in Korea. He knows his boyfriend still struggles with big crowds, and the WCS is what he works for during the whole year; so there's no doubt Deku will be stressed out and in need of someone to help him through it. Katsuki loves Deku more than anything, and he relishes in the fact that Izuku comes to him for support.

But he's also just a twenty-years-old virgin who has been obsessed with Deku for years. And now that they've been dating, they haven't had a lot of opportunities to develop the more physical side of their relationship. Since Izuku lives in his team's gaming house with over a dozen other people (including a manager who treats him like her son) and Katsuki lives in a house with his five best friends, it's very rare for them to get some time alone and with privacy. There's always the impending threat of someone barging in wherever they are.

They already had a couple of close calls. Once, Kaminari found them when Izuku was on Katsuki's lap while they were making out; all clothes were properly in place, but that hadn't stopped Dunce Face from running away, screaming he just saw 'KEM's joystick'. Another time, Round Face caught them when Katsuki's hand was on Izuku's ass — again over clothes, but more than enough for her to threaten to call the security on him for 'groping her poor, innocent Deku'. Round Face chased Katsuki through the house, branding a mock-up WoW sword — still, it was totally worth it since Katsuki will never forget the feeling of Izuku's supple ass on his hand.

It's evident that Katsuki is little more than pent up. He can't wear sweatpants anymore because he's always one Deku-thought away from a raging boner. It doesn't even have to be a lewd thought; he already got a half chub just from hearing Deku giggle in another room. There's no doubt that, if he goes to Korea with Deku, he'll spend a whole week hard without being able to get off.

And yeah, he won't be able to get off. He'll be lucky if he can jerk it for five minutes locked in the bathroom because Deku will be a pile of nerves. Between the weigh of the finals, the huge public demanding his attention, the interviews, and whatnot, Deku will most likely be a mess of anxiety. That will obviously put a damper in Izuku's mood for anything sexy, and Katsuki will never be the asshole who forces Deku to do anything.

Still, Deku asked him to come, and Katsuki would rather die than to let him down.

So, he may actually die of blue balls.

"Of course, nerd. If you want me, I'll be there," Katsuki answers against all reasoning. But Deku smiles brightly for him and he thinks that is totally worth the week-long torture he'll endure.

Izuku is a big pile of nerves. In the last few weeks, he's pretty sure his heart suffered more from stress than in his previous twenty years combined. Way too often, he catches his leg bouncing, hands fidgeting with things, and his mind far away. Everyone around him has been especially nice and understanding, doing everything they can to make him comfortable since the WCS finals are approaching and Izuku has a schedule packed with interviews until them.

However, this only makes Izuku feel more nervous and awkward because, the truth is, it's not the impending competition and media appearances that have been keeping him up all night.

No, Izuku has been a big ball of jitters because, finally, he's going to have some special alone time with Kacchan.

They've been dating for almost eight months now and haven't been able to do what most couples their age do — have sex. And Izuku wants it so damn much. But it's hard since they both have too many housemates who don't respect closed doors. Also, Kacchan is too much of a gentleman.

From the edgy clothes he uses and the amount of profanities he says, KingExplosionMurder has the fame of being a bad boy. Izuku found out that, before they announced their relationship, a good portion of the gaming community thought KEM was a player and had several women on the side. And though Kacchan received more than his fair share of thirsty tweets and girls sliding into his DMs, anyone who knows him knows he'd never pay attention to it.

Kacchan is as straight-edged as they come. He goes to sleep at 9 pm, he exercises to maintain his health and not to pick up people, and he never forgoes his vegetables on his meals. Kacchan also doesn't care about flings or any passing relationship, he devotes his whole self to dating Izuku and is overall what Nejire would call 'husband material'.

When they are alone, Kacchan always makes Izuku feel comfortable and happy. He's extraordinarily doting and spoils Izuku to no end — and he never lets his hands slip under any piece of clothing.

This is driving Izuku insane.

He gets so horny, and Kacchan never does anything about it. And, what's even worse, he knows Kacchan wants it! Izuku can always feel how Kacchan gets as hard as him, and his boyfriend looks pained every time he pulls back to put distance between them.

Izuku knows it's probably his fault. Since he's so awkward and shy, Kacchan has been trying to respect him and wait for Izuku to make the first moves. But it's so hard! Every time Izuku feels Kacchan's perfect chest or the rub of Kacchan's erection against his thigh, his brain totally shuts down. It becomes a blissful white static that allows him to only focus on the feelings Kacchan's body brings him. It's quite refreshing to be able to not think for a while since Izuku's overactive mind usually drives him crazy.

However, Izuku knows he'll never get what he wants if he waits for his boyfriend to make the first move. That's why he has this whole plan etched out for the days they'll be in Korea. He pestered Uraraka to schedule their flight one day before everyone else is going to, so this will give him one precious afternoon and one promising night to be alone with Kacchan there.

Then he'll take the chance to show Kacchan to his favorite spots in town, as he's been there before and Kacchan hasn't. They'll have a nice dinner together and turn in for an early night — so they can take full enjoyment of their private room. Izuku has been obsessing about this since Kacchan agreed to come to the finals with him, and he won't allow anything to go wrong.

Just the very idea of things not going how Izuku wants them to go makes his leg start bouncing again.

“Hey, nerd,” Kacchan whispers in his ear, startling Izuku out of his thoughts. “You should have told me planes freak you out.”

“They don’t,” Izuku answers truthfully. It’s not the plane that is spiking up his nerves, nor is the crowds in the airport, or the closing date for the WCS finals. It’s the fact that in 24 hours, he might be having sex with the very boy that is now looking at him with so much concern. “I’m fine. Don’t worry about me.”

Kacchan clicks his tongue and grabs Izuku’s hand. “I always worry about you, dweeb. Let’s go, they’re calling our rows.”

Izuku nods and tries to focus on the reassuring warmth coming from their linked hands. Everything is bound to go right because Kacchan is going to be by his side. Izuku knows that Kacchan will do his best to deliver anything he asks, so all he has to do is take the first step and be honest about what he wants. He honestly doesn’t need to worry about a thing when Kacchan is with him.

They settle on the plane and, during take-off, Kacchan doesn’t let go of his hand, no matter how many times Izuku tells him he really isn’t afraid of flying. His boyfriend only mutters grumpily, “Can’t I hold my damn boyfriend’s hand now?”, and tights his grip on Izuku. It’s adorable, and Izuku takes full advantage of that.

He ends up cuddling on Katsuki the whole flight, resting his head on Kacchan’s strong shoulder — and Kacchan doesn’t tell him off even once. It’s the most comfortable and delightful flight of Izuku’s whole life and, when they land, he’s feeling rested and relaxed.

That feeling doesn’t last long after they claim their bags, though.

The moment they pass through the gates that separate the baggage area from the rest of the airport, Izuku sees a small group of people holding a big sign that says ‘WELCOME DEKU & KINGEXPLOSIONMURDER’, who waive eagerly at them.

“Ahn- Who-who are them?” Izuku asks himself in disbelief. He made so many damn plans that would ensure he and Kacchan were alone for the whole day! Why is there an entourage waiting for them?

“They’re the welcoming team from one of my sponsors,” Kacchan offers by his side. “Since you said Round Faced had to book our tickets one day earlier than everyone else’s, I talked to them to help us find our way through the city.”

“Wha-what- Why? I’ve been to Seoul before! I can find my way!” Izuku protests.

But Katsuki just smiles kindly at him, “I told you that you wouldn’t have to worry about anything on this trip. And I know you’ve been stressed, nerd. So I made sure we’d have people helping us out, so you wouldn’t have to think with that too.” Kacchan gently kisses his temple and whispers, “I’ve got you. All you need to focus on is the finals, I’ll take care of the rest.”

At that moment, Izuku feels his love for his boyfriend reaches new heights — at the same time, the desire to kill him also reaches new heights.

The team in charge of taking care of them is very friendly and welcoming, but don’t leave them alone for even one second the whole day. They want to take advantage of having the famous couple all to themselves, so they take Izuku and Katsuki to know their flagship stores, take pictures with their developers, hang out in their developers and other sponsored players.

It was all fun and the kind of thing Izuku loves doing — except that’s not what he had in mind for today. Today he wanted to be a special day only for him and Katsuki. But Kacchan seemed to be enjoying everything — he hasn’t yelled or cussed at anyone too much. So Izuku swallowed it all with a fake smile on his face, clinging on to the thought that they still would have a special night together, just the two of them.

But then, they don’t. Izuku doesn’t manage to get them some peace and privacy for dinner. The sponsors end up taking them to a very fancy restaurant with a bunch of people. Izuku and Katsuki are only allowed to go back to their hotel room after it’s very late, and both are almost nodding off on the table.

Nonetheless, the moment they enter the elevator towards their room, Izuku nerves start acting up. Sure, the day wasn’t what he planned, but the night is still full of possibilities. He holds tight to the handle of his suitcase as butterflies bloom in his stomach. Quickly, Izuku’s mind rushes through his options of setting the mood and leading the way for the night he’s hoping they can have.

Izuku will need to rush to the bathroom to take a quick shower since he hasn’t been able to clean up the whole day. But that might be a good opportunity to work up the courage and leave the bathroom in just his sleeping pants. He knows he won’t be brave enough to go meet Kacchan completely naked, but if he starts kissing his boyfriend in bed only in his flimsy pajama pants, he’s sure his point will get across to Katsuki.

“You alright?” Katsuki asks, startling Izuku.

He must be looking weird, all tense and jumpy. But he needs to reassure Kacchan because if his boyfriend thinks Izuku isn’t entirely sure about this decision, Kacchan won’t go through with it. “I’m fine! Totally fine! Just eager to get to our room!” he answers.

“I’m fucking dead too. Those guys really paraded us around, hm? I can’t wait to sleep,” Kacchan grumbles.

“I- I’m not tired! Not at all!” Izuku tries arguing, but Kacchan just rolls his eyes and clicks his tongue.

“That’s because you have this screwed up sleeping schedule. You need to start going to be before the sun comes out, Deku.” Before Izuku has a chance to protest that accusation (even though it's mostly true), the elevator dings and they reach their floor. "Let's go."

The room is perfect, just like Izuku wanted. They're at one of the top floors, so there's a beautiful view of the city; the room is big and modern, decorated with light colors; there's a little lounge area with a couch and a TV, and there's a massive bed in the middle. Izuku can't help but be amazed at how perfect it is, but he doesn't have time to waste.

"I'll take a quick shower. Alright, Kacchan?" he says, opening his luggage to grab his clean clothes. However, he doesn't receive an answer, and when he looks up, Izuku sees Kacchan still frozen in place by the door, holding on to his suitcase. "Kacchan?"

It takes several seconds for Kacchan to snap out whatever daze he was. Izuku needs to call his name several times before that happens.

"What?"

"Are you alright?" Izuku asks, frowning.

"I- Just tired," Katsuki grumbles, finally venturing inside the room.

"I said I'll take a quick shower."

"Sure, sure… I-... I think I'll just get ready for bed," he answers awkwardly, looking around the whole room with a suspicious expression on his face.

"Ok! I'll be done in a minute!"

The bathroom is just as beautiful and luxurious as the bedroom, with a massive mirror and a bathtub big enough for two, but Izuku doesn't have time to pay much attention to it. He rushes through his shower, trying to be as meticulous as he can. He doesn't want to leave Kacchan waiting too long and risk running the mood.

After getting ready, before opening the door, Izuku takes a second to breathe and recompose himself. They're going to do it. He's getting back to the room, and he'll show Kacchan how much he wants to take their relationship to the next level. It's going to be great and perfect, and they'll remember this special night for their whole lives. With these thoughts in mind, Izuku opens the door and steps back into the room.

Just to see Katsuki sleeping soundly on the couch.

Kacchan grabbed one of the pillows from the bed, one of the extra blankets, and is wrapped like a very comfortable burrito on the couch. From the looks of it, Kacchan must be already entering REM sleep, pretty close to snoring.

Izuku almost feels like crying. They really lost their perfect day together. But Kacchan looks so cute, all cozy and warm. Izuku can't bear the thought of waking him up, so he sighs in frustration and resigns himself to sleeping alone in the huge bed.

Tomorrow will be a new day. Tomorrow, he'll make sure to find some time just for them.

They didn't find time to be alone either the second day. They woke up late, still tired and jet-lagged, and had to run to meet the rest of the group who would be with them in the WCS. It's a huge group of people — there's Ochako, who came to manage Deku as usual; Shouto, UA's owner, and Itsuka Kendo, UA's new Marketing Director, who came to talk to sponsors and other possible business partners. And that's only the people from UA, Izuku's team. There are also people from the media, sponsors from their country, and people from the game's company.

Basically, the whole day was a lot of running around, greeting people, and saying how Deku was feeling for the finals. Izuku grew increasingly frustrated with everything as the day passes. He and Kacchan didn't get even one second for themselves! He barely had a chance of talking with his boyfriend all day long; Kacchan just stood by his side, giving silent support as Izuku heard the same silly joke about him giving away his strategies before the games.

As the sun begins to set, Izuku becomes grumpy. This is all wrong! This was supposed to be relaxing for him! He thought he'd have time to rewatch his competitors' games, talk strategies with Kacchan, and spend some quiet time with his boyfriend. When one famous blogger tells them they are invited to go to this dinner party with lots and lots of other people from the industry, Izuku groans.

Luckily, his knight in black t-shirt comes to his rescue.

"Deku is still feeling the jet-lag, and he needs to be well-rested for the interviews tomorrow," Kacchan answers the blogger while grabbing Izuku's hand. "I think we'll turn ourselves in for the night and just order some room-service."

Izuku could have kissed him right then — if he wasn't so shy about PDA. Still, he squeezes Kacchan's hand in a silent thank you and lets his boyfriend lead him back to their hotel.

They end up passing by a little street vendor selling bibimbap, which makes the perfect dinner for them. It's honestly the best moment Izuku had since they arrived in Korea because it's exactly what he wanted to do with Kacchan there — try out some local food, have fun and joke around, totally relaxed and playful.

"I should film you eating kimchi and make it a viral challenge or something," Izuku teases after Katsuki orders another portion of the extra spicy stuff from the vendor.

"Hell no. Those bitches wouldn't be able to handle shit, and it would be like the cinnamon challenge all over again," Kacchan answers before dipping his kimchi in the spicy sauce as if it wasn't hot enough.

"Probably… Your insides must be on fire right now," Izuku giggles.

"It's not that bad," Kacchan shrugs. "I've eaten hotter things."

"Oh, I'm pretty sure it is that bad."

Kacchan gives him a sly smirk and asks, “Do you want to find out?”

Izuku looks down at his bowl, wondering if Kacchan is going to drop something on it. But, to his bewilderment, Kacchan grabs his chin and plants a sloppy kiss on Izuku’s mouth. The effect is instantaneous — Izuku feels his lips burning up and turns his face away.

“Kacchan!” he protests, which only makes his boyfriend laugh more. “It’s so hot! Oh, my God! How can you eat this?”

“Yeah, maybe it was a little hot,” Katsuki answers, still laughing. “Let me make it up to you. I’ll kiss it better.”

“No!” Izuku slams his hand on Kacchan’s mouth, protecting himself from the burning kisses. “No more kisses for you!”

They playfully wrestle for a couple of minutes, laughing harder than actually trying to overpower the other. After they end their dinner, they buy some ice cream on their way to the hotel, to balance out the spiciness in both their mouths. It’s perfect, and when they get back to the room, all Izuku can think of is about kissing Kacchan, not caring about the kimchi flavor.

When they get to their room, however, kisses are not the first thing on the agenda.

“Do you mind if I hop on the shower first? I think I’m sweating out the peppers now.”

“Sure! I’ll wait for you,” Izuku answers, getting comfortable in bed.

Finally, things are going the way he planned. Now he and Kacchan are back in their beautiful room and will have the whole night to themselves. Izuku giggles in excitement, wondering in each state of undress Kacchan will come out of the shower in. He wonders if he should peel off his clothes too, but then decides against it. Izuku doesn’t think he’d be able to feel seductive by waiting for Kacchan in bed naked, so it’d probably come out as awkward.

Still, Izuku neatly puts the lube and condoms he brought in the nightstand drawer. It’s better to have it at hand for when they need it, he thinks, giggling to himself. After that, it’s just a matter of waiting. Izuku fumbles through his phone, checking his messages and what his fans are projecting for the finals.

It takes a good while, but when the bathroom door opens, Izuku jumps up in bed, eager to see his boyfriend. However, Kacchan is completely dressed in an old t-shirt and some sweatpants. He looks at Izuku, still rubbing his hair dry.

“It’s all yours, nerd. I’ll go to sleep now. I’m totally destroyed,” he grumbles, sitting down on the couch.

Izuku watches in complete disbelief as Kacchan finishes drying his hair, sets the towel away, puts his phone to charge, and lies down on the couch, cocooning himself in the blanket. When Kacchan closes his eyes to sleep, something inside Izuku snaps.

“Kacchan!” he screeches. “What are you doing?!”

“Ah-... Sleeping?” Katsuki answers, unsure.

“And why are you on the couch?” Izuku asks, frustration bleeding on his voice.

“Because there’s only one bed? And I’m not making you sleep on the couch when you have all these interviews and shit to do tomorrow.” Katsuki frowns at him like Izuku is the one not making sense, only making him more frustrated.

“Come to bed! Now!” Izuku demands, though his voice comes more whiny than imperative.

Probably not wanting to agitate Izuku any further, Katsuki joins him in bed without any extra arguments. He sits by Izuku’s side and takes his hand into his own.

“What’s up, nerd?” Kacchan asks him gently. “Anxious with the games? Want me to keep you company until you sleep?”

Izuku looks into the worried, beautiful red eyes of his boyfriend and feels his heart squeezing. Kacchan really isn’t thinking about the things Izuku is thinking at all. All that Kacchan is concerned about is Izuku’s well-being. He really is the best boyfriend in the entire world — and Izuku is so done with waiting.

With purpose, he pulls Kacchan by the collar for a deep, desperate kiss. Taken by surprise, it takes a few seconds before Kacchan kisses back, but when he does, he takes Izuku’s breath away. Their kiss is needy, hands pull on clothes, trying to get impossibly closer. Izuku lets his hands venture under Kacchan’s t-shirt to feel the warm, hard muscles underneath.

Little moans and grunts escape through their locked lips as Izuku melts into the kiss. He feels all the stress and anxiety he had for months drain away from his body through Katsuki’s touches. Everything in the world seems right and perfect when they are together. Slowly, Izuku rests back on the bed, pulling Kacchan with him until his boyfriend is lying on top of him.

However, this new position makes Kacchan pull back.

“Nerd-” Katsuki tries talking, but Izuku interrupts him with another kiss. “Wait, nerd- We shouldn’t-”

“Kacchan,” Izuku whines. “I want more. It’s alright.”

He rolls his hips against Katsuki’s to show how much he wants it, Izuku’s erection dragging over his thigh. “Shit-” Katsuki curses before grabbing Izuku’s waist closer and kissing him even harder.

The feeling of his dick rubbing against Katsuki’s body is too much for Izuku to restrain himself — and the feeling of Kacchan’s erection rubbing against him right back sure doesn’t help. In no time, they’re both humping each other. They feel delirious in the heat that builds up between their bodies.

Pulling and pushing on clothes doesn’t get Izuku far, though. Kacchan doesn’t make any movements that could help with the shedding of clothes; his hands stay clamped down on Izuku's waist, still over his t-shirt. But Izuku doesn't have the mind to complain about that at this moment.

His whole body burns with pent up need. Little moans and cries fill the air around them, making the situation more real. Izuku digs his fingers on Katsuki's back, trying to anchor himself on something. However, that only makes him feel even clearer how Kacchan's muscles ripple and pull as the boy on top of him works his body sinfully against Izuku's.

It's too much, too hot and too emotional. Izuku barely realizes that they're both chasing down their own releases. His mind can't think of anything that isn't how perfect Kacchan is and how he'd die if they stopped right now. When Kacchan's hands finally venture south and grab him by the hip to grind their cocks together ever harder, Izuku gasps pleased.

He loves it, he loves so much the feeling of Kacchan being on top of him. His dick feels ready to explode. Every little drag edges on the borderline of pain and pleasure, but he can't stop. All he can do is reach out for more and more, way past the point of no return.

His orgasm hits him like lightning. It makes Izuku's whole body tremble, and he gasps for air in Kacchan's mouth. Warm wetness spreads through his underwear in a stick, disgusting mess, and just a second later, he feels Kacchan's whole body shuddering and hears him groaning, betraying his orgasm as well. Katsuki drops his weight on top of him bonelessly as they both struggle to find air.

For a while, Izuku's mind is just a blissful blank — finally rid of all anxiety and doubt. That is, until Kacchan starts talking again.

"Shit- Yeah, see? That's why we can't sleep on the same bed," he mutters, rolling off Izuku. "You can go take a shower, I'll fix the bed for you. Tomorrow we'll see about bringing an extra bed here-"

No! No, no, no! No extra bed! No shower! Izuku can't believe it's all over! It barely started and they already came in their pants, and he didn't even have the chance to see Kacchan naked or even touch Kacchan's chest properly and this is all so damn unfair how can Izuku have a sexy boyfriend and never be able to even see it? He can't believe he got caught up and let things go this way after all that planning and now he'll never-

"Hey, hey," Kacchan touches his cheek gently, making Izuku face him. "Why the waterworks, nerd?"

Concern is clear on Katsuki's face, which only makes Izuku sob as his crying makes itself more apparent. He tried to answer, to argue, but his voice simply wouldn't leave his constricted throat — and the painful expression on Kacchan's face just makes the situation worse.

"I'm- I'm sorry, Deku," Kacchan stutters, softly patting his hair. "I shouldn't have come into the bed. I knew you've been stressed and that it'd be too much, and I tried- I fucking tried to stay away, I swear! But that's no excuse, and I failed… If you want, I can find another room-"

“No!” Izuku interrupts Katsuki, slamming his hand on his mouth to stop him from saying anything more. “No! Ka- Kacchan got it all wrong!” he states, fighting against the sobs. “I-I’m sad because Ka- Kacchan doesn’t- doesn’t want me,” his voice breaks a little, but now that the dam broke, he can’t keep the words in anymore. “An-and I tried so hard an-and no one ga-gave us time alone and Kacchan do-doesn’t want-”

Katsuki pulls Deku’s hand off his mouth and silences him with a kiss. It’s not a desperate kiss like the ones they were trading a minute before; it’s gentle and sweet, in contrast to the salty tears. Kacchan runs his finger through Deku’s curls lovingly, patting him until he’s sure Izuku isn’t crying anymore.

“Don’t you ever say again that I don’t want you,” Kacchan whispers when they separate, looking deep into Izuku’s eyes. “I love you, and there’s nothing in the whole world I want more than to be with you.”

Izuku’s heart squeezes painfully on his chest. This is not the first time Kacchan tells him he loves Izuku, but every time that happens, Izuku feels so happy that it hurts.

“I love you too, Kacchan,” he whispers, pulling his boyfriend for a hug.

That’s not how Katsuki expected this night to go — or any night of their trip, for that matter. He’s been doing his best to just be the support Izuku needs, and he thought he was doing a good job at it (even if he had to pretend to be asleep last night). But then, things got out of control. One second he and Deku are dry-humping in bed until they aren’t dry anymore, and the next Deku is crying his eyes out, accusing Katsuki of not wanting him.

Katsuki should be feeling insulted by it; most of the time, it’s hard to not think about wanting Izuku. However, he can’t focus on that because Izuku also said some other interesting things during his rant.

“Now… Tell me more about these plans of yours,” he whispers near Deku’s ear, and he feels his boyfriend shiver on his lap. Shit, Deku is too hot for his own good.

“I… I thought we’d have some time… on our own, you know,” Izuku answers shyly. “I asked for this bedroom and for us to have a whole day alone here…”

Warmth pools on Katsuki’s lower abdomen as Izuku confesses setting things up so they could have some private time together. He doesn’t dare to think how he (and his insecurities) was a big part of why these plans didn’t pan out — Katsuki was honestly terrified when they got to the room, and he saw there was just one bed. Katsuki can’t undo the mistakes he made, but he can try to get them right now.

“And what would we do when we got alone?” he whispers, letting his lips brush over Izuku’s neck.

“Kacchan!” Deku whines. “You’re being a bully…”

“Me? Never,” he answers, smirking. “I just want to be sure… I don’t want to do anything you don’t want me to.”

“I don’t think there’s anything you want to do that I’d be opposed to, Kacchan,” Deku whispers back seriously, making Katsuki tremble this time. This is real, this is really happening — and Izuku wants it as much as he does.

“In that case… I really want to touch your butt,” he confesses, a blush creeping on his cheeks.

Katsuki can’t believe he actually voiced that desire, but Izuku just giggles and plops down on the bed with his ass up. “Alright, touch away,” Deku says, making Katsuki’s eyes almost pop out of their sockets. His breath catches on his throat, and his hands itch with the need to touch. Completely unapologetically, Izuku even wiggles his butt a little to tease him.

“Shit…” he curses under his breath as his hand touches on the supple flesh of Izuku’s ass. It’s so squishy and round. Though Izuku is the one being touched, Katsuki moans and bites his lips in pleasure as he gropes and massages Izuku’s beautiful ass. It’s even better than the fleeting touches he made while they made out in Deku’s office once.

“You… You can pull my pants down if you want…” Izuku offers, his face hidden in the pillows.

That offer makes Katsuki freeze in place. Oh, he wants to pull his boyfriend’s pants off. He so fucking wants it. But should he? Izuku was just crying and he-

“Kacchan…” Deku whined, turning to look at him with a pout on his lips. “I thought you wanted to do it .”

Alright, this overthinking shit is officially over now. Katsuki will have sex with his beautiful, perfect boyfriend, just like the two of them want.

“Fuck yeah, I wanna do it,” he answers, kissing Izuku’s back. “Let’s get you off these…”

Though Katsuki reaches for Izuku’s pants with purpose, like he knows how to undress a person on his bed, his hands are shaking. He does his best to hide it behind a big layer of confidence, though, since he doesn’t want Izuku to think he’s second-guessing shit. Luckily, Izuku silently shifts in bed to help him with the pants, and he doesn’t tease Katsuki when his breath hitches as Izuku’s beautiful, milky thighs are uncovered for him.

In a daze, Katsuki gently runs his hand over Izuku’s thigh until the edge of his underwear. There’s a telling wet spot in front of the red boxers that completely hypnotizes Katsuki. He did that. Just minutes ago, he made Izuku cum by rubbing their groins together — he came, moaned and trembled on Katsuki’s arms, and soon, he’ll have the chance of doing this all over again.

“Take this off?” Izuku’s voice brings Katsuki out of his stupor.

Izuku is holding the hem of Katsuki's t-shirt and he doesn't have to think twice before pulling the damn thing over his head. After throwing the piece of clothing across the room, he sees Izuku's hungry gaze, ogling at his chest. This fills Katsuki's ego, and he may have puffed up a little more than he needed for a second. But only for a second, because the next, they're already tangled in each other, kissing deeply and sensually.

This time, hands are free to explore every inch they can reach. Katsuki maps out Izuku small, lithe body eagerly. He feels so precious, warm and soft under his fingers. Gladly, Katsuki would spend the whole night just touching Izuku like this, but his boyfriend had other plans.

It doesn't take long for Izuku to begin wrestling with Katsuki's pants and, just to be fair, Katsuki thugs against Izuku's t-shirt. It's a little messy, and Izuku's elbow almost hits Katsuki's jaw once — but when they find themselves wrapped around each other with just their soiled, flimsy underwear separating them, it's heavenly.

"Damn, you're hot," he growls, digging his fingers on Izuku's ass as he rubs their erections together.

"Kacchan," Izuku moans for a second before pushing Katsuki away. "No, no! You're not making me cum like this again!"

Katsuki giggles at the little pout in Deku's mouth and pulls him back to his arms. "Ain't you a greedy little nerd? What do you want? A blowjob?"

Though his voice sounds teasing, deep down, Katsuki is praying Izuku says yes. He's dying to suck his boyfriend.

"I… I want to have sex," Izuku says, blushing.

"I thought that's what we are doing…" Katsuki nibbles on Izuku's ear, wanting to make him stutter and squirm again. But Izuku pushes him back, this time to crawl to the nightstand. When he returns, he drops condoms and lube in front of Katsuki.

"I mean… the whole way," Deku says, and now Katsuki's blush rivals his boyfriend's.

Sure, he had got the message Izuku wanted to do sex stuff, but since he hadn't prepared anything, Katsuki thought they'd just fool around without their clothes on. He didn't think they'd jump straight into penetrative sex and, now that this option was on the table, Katsuki feels terrified and in love with the idea.

"Fuck…" he whispers in awe.

Way more sensually than Katsuki thought Izuku could act, he lays back on the pillows and coaxes Katsuki in coming to him. This time, their kiss has a new layer of excitement and expectation. It's incredible, everything Katsuki has ever dreamed of and more. He can barely believe this is actually happening — but the way his soiled underwear is catching on his hard dick is too uncomfortable for him to think this is a dream.

Unconsciously, his hands go to pull on the underwear and get rid of the stuff, but he stops his action in the middle, realizing what he's just about to do. Izuku doesn't seem to be second-guessing anything, though, and allows his hand to push down Katsuki's black boxers.

"Take mine too," he whispers between their lips, and Katsuki is too far gone to argue with that.

As he raises his torso to throw the pieces of clothing away, Katsuki takes a second to ogle at his naked boyfriend. Izuku is so fucking beautiful Katuski thinks his heart will give out — too overwhelmed by his feelings. From the flush on his face, to his perky nipples, to his dark pink erection — everything about Izuku is incredible.

"You're perfect," he mutters in awe and is rewarded by a bright smile from his Deku.

"You're perfect, too," Izuku answers.

They fumble through kisses, feeling their skin glide against one another. Neither of them really knows how to approach this, so every touch is awkward an uncertain — but so incredibly delicious that they can't bear the idea of stopping. When their erections rub together, Katsuki thanks the fact he already came not long ago, or else this would be over before it started.

Izuku is the one to reach for the lube, but Katsuki asks to do it. He dreamed so much about touching Deku in this private spot; still, his hand shakes harshly as he presses one digit on his boyfriend's puckered hole. They both moan as the first finger slides in, and share loving kisses, to reassure each other.

The process of prepping Deku is way sexier than Katsuki thought it would be. His heart slams on his chest, and his hand trembles, but he must be doing something right from the beautiful reactions he coaxes out of Izuku. Every new action is approached with doubt, "Can I add another?", and received with eagerness, "Ye-yes! Put it in!".

And again, it's Izuku the one who decides when enough is enough. "Kacchan… I need you …"

For all the fame KingExplosionMurder has of never backing down and never questioning himself, he's feeling utterly lost in this new experience. But Izuku seems to be enjoying and he looks happy with Katsuki, so that has to count for something. Besides, they're learning the way together, and that's the best part of it all.

It takes a couple of tries for Katsuki to get the condom right (damn shaky hands…), but he does it and then takes one last look into Deku's eyes to be sure that's what he wants. Katsuki is happy to see no doubt in Izuku whatsoever. His Deku's eyes are shining bright with love — which must be mirroring Katsuki's own.

At the first thrust in, Katsuki is pretty sure that, even though he came not long ago, he's already way too close to cumming again. It's so incredibly hot that the searing heat threatens to melt Katsuki's whole self. Izuku's insides are the best sensation Katsuki has ever felt. It's hard not to lose himself to it, but the stinging pain of Izuku's nails digging on his biceps is a welcomed anchor.

"Is it hurting?" he asks worriedly.

"N-no," Izuku stutters breathless. "S-so good, Kacchan."

That reassurance calms Katsuki's heart a little. "Can I move?" he asks as if stay still wasn't straining his self-control to unreached levels.

"Y-yes! Pl-please!"

Izuku wraps his legs around Katsuki's waist to urge him on, so Katsuki starts slow and shallow thrusts. Every drag of his dick is too much and not enough at the same time. It drives Katsuki absolutely insane with pleasure, and he prays for this to never end.

Dropping his face to the crook of Izuku's neck, he breathes in — and all Katsuki gets is Deku's scent. All his senses are flooded with everything Deku. Katsuki knew this would be the most intimate experience of their relationship as of yet, but it's even more than he was expecting. It's hard for him to concentrate on the signs his body sends him because all he can think is about how Deku's breathing is labored, how beautiful his little moans are, how warm and solid he feels under Katsuki's arms, how good he smells.

They move in synchrony, in a maddening slow rhythm. There's barely enough space for them to move at all, but they prefer it this way since not being that close sounds terrifying. Arms and legs are wrapped around each other in a sensual embrace that lets them share the same air, taste each other's sweat, and hear every gasped sound.

Still, going slow isn't enough to stop the end from coming. Way sooner than any of them would have liked it, their orgasms build up all over again — it's clear from the way Katsuki's muscles pull tight and Izuku's body trembles. They share one last breathless, messy kiss until Katsuki feels Izuku convulsing between his arms and his walls clamping down on his dick. That's the last drop it was missing for Katsuki to cum deeply inside Izuku, riding out wave after wave of pleasure with his lover.

Disgusting, sweaty, and exhausted, they both drop in bed. And yet still, reach out for one another to snuggle. Words aren't needed as they kiss and cuddle, wanting desperately to keep the closeness they achieved.

It takes a good while for them to feel comfortable with breaking the silence without breaking the spell, and the first words come out Katsuki's mouth.

"I love you."

"Love you too, Kacchan," Izuku answers with a drowsy smile.

"We can't sleep dirty like this…"

"Want to go in the bathtub with me?"

“Fuck yeah… I’ve been eyeing that tub since we got here,” he confesses, smiling too.

“Me too… I wanted to play my Switch in there,” Izuku says playfully.

“You’re gonna drop it in the water, you klutz…” Katsuki shakes his head, chuckling.

“Not if you’re in there to help me keep it dry…”

Pretending to sigh in defeat, Katsuki acquiesces. “All right… You drive a hard bargain, but I’m sold.”

In a fit of giggles, Izuku jumps out of bed and runs to the bathroom. Katsuki stays back, taking a second just to marvel in how perfect his boyfriend is. And people say you shouldn’t meet your idols…

“Kacchan! Aren’t you coming?”

Their night ends up being perfect — just as every other night of their trip. During the day, Izuku shows the world how brave, charming, and incredible he is; and at night, they take their time discovering each other’s body and being disgustingly in love.

For some reason, this combo works, and they manage to keep Izuku’s anxiety about the interview, media appearances, and the finals’ games under control. And this proves to be a huge problem for Deku’s adversaries in the competition — because if a freaked-out Deku was already a beast, a happy and loved Deku was unstoppable.

Katsuki’s heart almost exploded with pride as he watched Izuku raise the Championship cup for one more time at the end of the trip.

Katsuki noticed something was wrong with his boyfriend while watching his stream. Deku began his weekly stream cheerful as usual — Katsuki knows because the moment he got the notification that Deku was online on Twitch, he dropped everything he was doing to watch it, as he has been doing since way before he could call the other boy his boyfriend.

Back at his self-titled gaming house, Katsuki closed his stream with an easy "Deku is on, you guys know what that means. See you tomorrow, noobs", and opened Deku's. His boyfriend came a fucking long way and the way he smiles at the camera and thanks everyone for joining him before getting on with his game warms Katsuki's heart.

For most of the stream, Deku seemed normal. He gave his little tips, mumbled away some stats none of his followers would be able to comprehend, and was overall the cutest fucking thing in the entire world — business as usual. But in the middle of it, Deku's phone alerted him of a message.

From the video feed, it was impossible to see what Deku read on his phone, just how he frowned for a second, and then his face morphed in surprise. The whole thing lasted less than a minute, and Izuku tried to go back to playing as if nothing had happened. That act didn't fool Katsuki, though. Worry grew within him as Deku miss-clicked more in that stream than Katsuki had ever seen him do through the years he's been watching Deku play.

Not long after, Deku finished his stream with a shaky goodbye to his followers. Katsuki barely waited for the screen to go black before he called Izuku.

"Hey, Kacchan," Deku greets him with fake cheerfulness.

"What's wrong?" Katsuki inquires without wasting any second. "I was watching your stream and I know something happened." There's no room for argument in Katsuki's voice. He knows that if he gives Deku any opening, he'll play down whatever is bothering him to not let Katsuki worry.

"I-" Izuku starts talking but gives up and sighs. "I'm fine, Kacchan. I promise. We can talk about this tomorrow at dinner, alright?"

At least once a week, they both make room in their busy schedules for Izuku to come by Katsuki's place for a date night. They hide away from the other moronic members of the gaming house to have dinner, play in their Switches, and cuddle in bed (and maybe play in bed, as well). And that day would be tomorrow, but Katsuki can't wait that long.

"I'm coming by UA today," he states unwavering.

"Kacchan… You know Ochako won't let you sleepover on a workday," Izuku reminds him, and Katsuki almost huffs. Damn Round Face is a chaperone tougher than an 18th-century maid that needs to keep their young Lady's virginity protected.

"I'll bring food, we can eat and then I'll leave. Don't worry, I'll deal with Round Face."

Izuku giggles, bringing some relief to Katsuki's worried heart. "Alright, Kacchan. I can never say no to seeing you one extra day."

Still, he couldn't really relax until he had seen Izuku and heard whatever had bothered his boyfriend during the stream. The hours until they could see each other dragged on and he was more than happy when he could finally take the train to UA. He passed by a Thai take-out restaurant to pick up food for them and, with purpose, rang UA's doorbell.

"Today isn't a date day, Bakugou," Round Face tells him in lieu of a greeting when she comes to open the door.

"I don't need your permission to see my boyfriend," Katsuki hisses.

Uraraka crosses her arms and looks at him in defiance, making no move to open the gate. "Oh, don't you?"

Katsuki huffs and rolls his eyes, "Come on. Deku was weird on his stream today…"

They engage in a stare-battle for a moment before Uraraka acquiesces and opens the gate. "Fine… He did get some unexpected news today."

"Media shit?" he asks as they enter the gaming house together.

"Not really… It's better for him to tell you," she says. "He's in his room already." With a nod, they part ways and Katsuki climbs the stairs towards Izuku's room.

Knocking on Izuku`s door gives Katsuki a much warmer welcome than what Round Face offered him.

"Kacchan!" Izuku hugs and kisses him.

Katsuki holds the take-out bag with one hand and hugs his boyfriend's back with the other. Seeing that Izuku is fine enough to properly greet him helps with Katsuki's anxiety.

"Hey there, nerd," he greets his boyfriend with a smile and raises the bag with the food. "Are you hungry?"

Izuku's eyes shine with excitement, "What did you bring?"

They sit together on the floor, pulling chopsticks and napkins out of the bag. For a moment, it's easy to forget why Katsuki came here at all — being around Izuku always makes the rest of the world not matter to him. Their conversation naturally falls around their usual topics, such as game updates, gaming world gossip, their friends, and whatnot.

"Shitty Hair scored a show-match for the next PAX West," Katsuki says between mouthfuls. "Now all the other losers are trying to come up with reasons to go. So I guess we'll have company for that."

Usually, Izuku would be happy with the perspective of their friends joining them for a big event. He became close friends with most of Katsuki's friends and he loves having them around. But after getting the news, Izuku stops eating and starts fidgeting.

That raises red flags in Katsuki's mind, so he puts his food down worried. "Everything alright?" he asks gently.

"I… I've got some news today… About my father…"

Izuku's father works in Japan and can only come back home for very few days each year — and often Izuku can't see him because he's busy with his own gaming career. Katsuki knows that his boyfriend has a complicated relationship with his father and that this is hard on Izuku.

"He'll be in town during PAX West and has promised to come to see me there." Izuku's eyes show his inner conflict with that information.

Katsuki doesn't need to ask to know that Izuku is excited with the idea of seeing his father, but also anxious about things going bad.

"Hey… Why the freak-out? That's great, right? I know you miss him," Katsuki says gently, slowly scooching closer to wrap an arm around Izuku's waist.

"It is… I guess…" he mumbles. "But what if he doesn't like it? He's never been to an event before and you know how the fans can be…"

"Don't be silly, nerd…" Katsuki kisses his temple. "Your father knows about your career and has never said shit about it, has he?"

"No… He always asks how I'm doing and congratulates me for my wins," Izuku mumbles, snuggling against Katsuki.

"See? You're the fucking best. You'll mop the floor with the face of any fucker that falls against you on the bracket and your father will be proud to see it."

Izuku giggles and looks up to Katsuki's eyes. "I'll not clean floors, Kacchan…" Then he's face morphs to mischief and he completes, "I may kick some asses, though."

Katsuki smiles at him and pulls Izuku to a quick kiss. "That's my nerd," he says proudly. "And there's no need to worry about fans and extras. I'll be there with you and I'll scare the fuckers away so you and your old man can have some peace."

“You don’t scare people anymore, Kacchan,” Izuku says smiling. “I don’t think you ever did, but now everyone knows you’re the nicest guy around.”

“What?” Katsuki protests with fake outrage. “KingExplosionMurder is the fucking meanest asshole around and those idiots better remember that!"

“Kacchan, you cried on the stream playing To The Moon.”

“I DID NOT!” he objects. “It’s just an emotional game and Shitty Hair said I was very manly playing it,” Katsuki finishes, huffing.

“Yeah, because if there’s someone who knows about manly tears is Kiri,” Izuku teases with a small smile on his face.

One of Katsuki’s favorite parts about dating Izuku is how the boy really came out of his shell since they got together, and now he shows Katsuki every little bit of his personality — even the fact he can be a little shit sometimes. Still, KEM can’t allow such slander to go unpunished.

“I’m gonna show you who the fuck is manly,” he warns before tackling Izuku on the ground and starting to tickle him.

The room fills with the sound of Deku’s unbridled laughter as the smaller boy squirms on the floor, begging Katsuki to stop.

“No! No, Kacchan! You’re right! You’re manly! The manliest and meanest! Please stop!”

“Exactly,” he whispers near Izuku’s face as he stops his attack. “And don’t you forget it, nerd.”

“Kacchan is the best,” Izuku says smiling, his face flushed from laughing so much. “He even went past Ochako on a not-date night.”

“I’ve already defeated bosses way worse than Round Face. I beat Hollow Knight 112%. That shorty has nothing-”

“What are you two doing there?” Uraraka’s voice comes from the outside of the door, making both of them freeze in fear. “I’m gonna open this door and I swear, if you two aren’t dressed, Bakugou will never again enter this house!”

She didn’t have to finish her warning for Katsuki and Izuku to quickly scramble back to a more appropriate position, sitting side by side, trying to pretend they never stopped eating their dinner.

On the days leading to the event, Izuku became increasingly anxious about his father’s visit — and Katsuki did his best to reassure Deku that everything would go smoothly. Because, make no mistake, everything will turn out smoothly, no matter what Katsuki has to do to make sure of that. This is a big deal for Deku and Katsuki won't allow anything to screw it up.

It's going to be a tough weekend, but Katsuki is sure he can handle it. Izuku has matches on the first day of the event, and they'll stay there one day after that, which will give father and son a lot of time for bonding. Katsuki already made sure to check with the staff so that everyone will have VIP passes and are able to retreat to the backstage in case the fans get rowdy — he won't see any reprise of the mob attack that led him to meet Deku in the first place. Katsuki has already learned his lesson about that.

As they arrive in the convention center, Izuku is just one big pile of nerves.

"He's going to arrive at 10, but I need to be on the backstage at 9:30 so the match can start at 10:30, so you-"

"I'm going to pick him up at the entrance and bring him to the front row to watch you play," Katsuki says, for what it feels like the hundredth time that week. "Chill, nerd. I've got this, we already have everything planned out. You just focus on kicking ass on your games and I'll take your father to congratulate you backstage later. Alright?"

Izuku looks at him, eyes filled with worry and adoration. "I-... Yeah, alright. I trust Kacchan. I'm sure you and dad will get along great. I just-"

"You just need to go. Round Face there checked her clock five times in the last two minutes," he says, mentioning the manager who is waiting for them a couple of steps in the front. "I have your father's number, so I can call him if I don't find him. You have nothing to worry about."

"Thank you, Kacchan," Izuku gives him one last hug. "I don't know what I'd do without you."

"Don't worry about that either. I'm not going anywhere," Katsuki whispers gently.

With one parting kiss, Izuku is escorted to the backstage to get ready for his matches, leaving Katsuki behind.

"Oh! So cute!" Kaminari screeches.

And the Idiots' Squad is here.

"I'll never leave you either, dude," Sero playfully says to Kaminari.

"Thank you, buddy," Kaminari pretends to wipe off a tear. "But I need to pee now and I don't want you checking my junk."

Katsuki rolls his eyes. "You all heard the nerd. I'm on duty these next few days. You all will need to get fucking lost. Don't need your ugly mugs scaring away Deku's dad."

"It's cool, Explodey," Mina says smiling. "You go charm the in-law, and we'll keep the fans and sponsors entertained."

“We totally got this, bro,” Kirishima smiles as well.

For some reason, Katsuki doesn’t feel reassured whatsoever. Maybe because Sero just ran after Kaminari, asking if he wanted to bust the developers’ lounge's bathroom. Nonetheless, he can’t worry about that today. He’ll just have to trust that his friends are smart enough to not get themselves arrested (doubtfully, though).

“Whatever, I’m out. Keep an eye out on tweedle dumb and tweedle dumber,” he warns, shaking his head, before going back to the convention’s entrance.

It’d be a lie to say Katsuki himself isn’t a little nervous. It’s not every day you meet the father of your boyfriend and all that shit. Still, he does his best to stomp that down. He has to keep his shit together for Deku — and, most important of all, he has to keep his temper in check while accompanying Deku’s dad around the convention.

Walking through specially designated areas to not get attacked by fans, Katsuki reaches the VIP entrance and finds a man who can only be Midoriya Hisashi, Izuku’s father. He’s not very tall, has a mess of black, curly hair on top of his head, some faded freckles, and is looking around like he’s completely lost. The man sticks out from the nerd crowd with his conservative dark suit and tie. It’s weird, but kind of endearing. He’s not a bad looking man and Katsuki is pleased to attest that his Deku will keep being cute and adorable through the years to come.

“Good morning, sir,” Katsuki greets. “I’m Katsuki. Izuku must have told you I’d be coming to escort you.”

“Oh, Katsuki!” the man smiles in greeting and extends his hand to shake Katsuki’s. “Nice to meet you! Izuku told me everything about you!” Well, Katsuki hopes his boyfriend hasn’t told everything, or else this ‘meeting the parents’ shit can become awkward pretty quickly.

“I hope only good shi- stuff, sir,” he grunts, awkwardly.

The man’s smile gets even bigger, betraying his age with expression eyes around his eyes. “The best! Izuku is very fond of you! I’m happy to know my son has such a dedicated boyfriend!”

Katsuki looks away to hide his blush. “Ah- thank you. I- Should we go? Izuku is on the first match.”

It doesn’t take long for Katsuki to be absolutely sure the man walking by his side is his boyfriend’s biological father. If the physical resemblance wasn’t already enough; the way the man looked around the convention center with bright, amazed eyes as if he was a five-year-old certainly would do the trick. Midoriya ‘ooh’s and ‘aah’s at every cosplay and every display along the way.

When they get to the stage where the Starcraft II games would be played, Katsuki and Midoriya take the front row VIP seats that Uraraka secured with the event organizers. Izuku’s father is pretty impressed with the size of the event, how large the public is, how bright the lights are, how incredible the stage set-up is. Katsuki imagines that's how his boyfriend was like when he came to his first event.

"Look! It's Izuku!" the man exclaims excitedly when Deku shyly enters the stage.

Izuku has been dealing better with public appearances, but they're always a struggle and the fact he was already more anxious than usual because of his father's visit means he's struggling a lot with the crowd and cameras today. Katsuki's heart squeezes when he notices how nervous and out of place on the stage he is. He wishes he could run up there and shield Deku from everything that is bothering him.

Unfortunately for both of them, there's nothing that can be done except soldier through the long, long hours of the competition.

As expected, Izuku easily wins all of his matches. By Katsuki's side, Midoriya cheers and celebrates with the crowd after every one of Deku's big plays — but Katsuki realized the older man doesn't really understand what's going on in the game, he's just following the cues from the public and casters, enjoying the chance of celebrating his son's achievements. Katsuki wishes Izuku could see how happy his father looks watching him play; but he knows that, with the bright stage lights, Deku isn't able to see anything clearly in the crowd.

When all the matches end and Deku is invited to the stage to receive his prize and give his winner interview, he's an even bigger pile of anxiety than he was at the start. It's awful to see his boyfriend so distraught. Katsuki hates every single second of the interview where Deku just mumbles away random stats, unable to make eye contact and answer the questions clearly.

From the side of the stage, Katsuki sees Uraraka arguing with some organizers, probably trying to make the interview be cut short and take Deku out of the stage. Another couple of failed attempts at making Deku talk from the presenter and Izuku is rushed off stage as some girls take his place to distribute freebies to the crowd.

"He's been taken to the backstage lounge," Katsuki tells Midoriya, who seems to be a bit lost to what just happened. "Let's go see him."

"Oh, right! Great!" the man says, still looking a little confused.

With the natural commotion and movement of the crowd from the matches ending, it takes them longer than Katsuki would have liked to make their way to the room they'd meet Deku. Every minute they stay stuck in place because of the crowd frustrates Katsuki to no end. He needs to reach Deku and tell the silly nerd how happy his father was watching him before Deku works himself up to a panic attack.

Katsuki is sure that, when they finally find Izuku, his boyfriend will have tears on his eyes; maybe he'll even be hiding under a table.

And yet, when he finally enters the lounge, Deku's bright, beautiful laugh fills the room. Confused, Katsuki looks around and finds something he hasn't expected even in his worst nightmares — Izuku talking and laughing with Shigaraki.

Shigaraki is the worst of the worst the gaming community has to offer — rager, spoiled, troll, conceited, a big piece of shit of the worst kind. The fucker is the leader of a group of streamers that were labeled 'The League of Villains' by their own followers from their work encouraging people to DDoS opponents when they're losing matches, promoting smear campaigns against games and devs they don't like, and organizing troll attacks against other streamers.

But Deku wouldn't know any of that, because Deku isn't really involved in the bad side of the gaming community. He still doesn't even use his own Twitter. Everything Deku knows about gaming gossip is what Katsuki and their friends tell him, and none of them want to even mention Shigaraki.

Now his beautiful, innocent boyfriend is talking to the biggest scumbag on Earth, and Katsuki can't explode and throw Shigaraki away because he has to keep his temper under control in front of Izuku's father. This day just took a turn to the fucking worse.

"Izuku!" Katsuki calls out, wanting nothing more than to get his boyfriend away from Shigaraki as fast as he can.

"Kacchan!" Izuku turns to him with a bright smile. "Dad!"

"Hey there, champ! You were great out there!" Midoriya says, pulling his son for a hug.

But Katsuki isn't paying attention to the father-son reunion, though. He's too busy glaring at Shigaraki who has the most infuriating little smile on his face.

"Didn't know they allowed any shitbag in," he hisses, not letting Deku and his father hear him. "The quality of these events has really fallen."

"You didn't know? Weird… I mean, they did let you in. But I guess selling your personality away for a quick lay with a better gamer can help open doors… Right, KEM?" Shigaraki whispers back, still smiling.

Fury fills Katsuki's whole being and he starts retorting, "You fucking-"

"Kacchan! Do you know Shiga?" Izuku interrupts him with an easy smile, totally unaware of the exchange that just happened.

"Yeah, I've heard of him," Katsuki grumbles without breaking his death stare at the invader.

"Really? I'm always the last to know people," Izuku says apologetically. "But he was keeping me distracted while I waited for you two."

Taking a deep breath to control his anger, Katsuki turns to his boyfriend. "Shitty crowd didn't let us pass, but we're here now. We can go find somewhere for you two to talk."

"Actually, you can't." Round Face steps in, Katsuki didn't even notice she was around. "Deku will have to join a group of other gamers who will make rounds on the event floor, making appearances in the games' booths. It was agreed with the event organizers to hype up this year's attractions online."

“Yes, and I’m one of the gamers,” Shigaraki says with a pleased smile. “Deku and I have a lot of promoting to do today.”

“You two can follow the entourage,” Round Face tells Katsuki and Midoriya. “It’ll be good since I have to check on my other players who have matches this afternoon.”

For all the battles he and Round Face engaged, the woman still knows better than to keep Izuku alone, away from Katsuki. He and Uraraka have developed mutual respect over their love for Izuku and she knows Katsuki always will protect his boyfriend in stressful situations.

“Sorry, dad,” Izuku tells his father with a sad expression. “I wish we could walk the event together today.”

“Don’t worry about that,” Midoriya answers with a smile. “I don’t want to get in the way of your work. Besides, it’s pretty interesting to see you in your environment, and Katsuki has been a great guide.”

Katsuki wants to explode. He wants to throw Shigaraki away and tell the damn event organizers to go fuck themselves.

But he can’t. Deku is already anxious and Katsuki promised to not lose his temper in front of Midoriya. So he just nods to Round Face and accepts his fate for the day. It’s just one afternoon and he’s sure he can keep shit under control.

Katsuki wants to review his previous statement — he can not keep shit under control. He’s as fucking close to killing Shigaraki as EA’s FIFAs are to their previous releases; that is, just a breath away.

Shigaraki keeps fucking touching Deku! It’s driving Katsuki absolutely mad! And Deku barely notices it! His poor boyfriend is so anxious about game devs talking to him, and the camera crew that is following them around, capturing every reaction, that he doesn’t pay attention to the casual touches Shigaraki is giving to his arms, shoulders, and back.

Not only that, Shigaraki is clearly flirting with Deku. The asshole doesn’t miss any opportunity to talk to Izuku, crack a little joke and try to make Izuku pay attention to him instead of freaking out about the crowd. That’s Katsuki’s job! He’s the only one allowed to play around with Deku and try to make him smile.

A big ball of anger and jealousy starts growing on Katsuki’s stomach. He hasn’t felt so angry and unhinged for a long time. And yet, he can’t do anything. Katsuki can’t lose his mind in front of so many people, not after how hard he worked in cleaning up his act.

Nonetheless, when Shigaraki pulls Deku to a side-hug as they pose for the cameras, Katsuki decides that enough is enough. The moment Izuku gets distracted talking to a dev, Katsuki steps in and pulls Shigaraki to the side.

“I’m watching you, fucker. You keep your sleazy hands away from Deku or I-”

“Or you what, KEM?” Shigaraki asks, unbothered. “You’ll up your ‘best boy-toy in the world’ act? I’m tired of seeing the whole world accept this charade of yours; as if you found love and now you’re a much better person than the rest of us peasants. All you need is one small push and you’ll show your true colors again, and let’s see if pure, gentle Deku will stay with a rager after that. Or, who knows, maybe he likes bad boys. Maybe I’ll be the one pounding that fat ass by the end of the day.”

During Shigaraki’s speech, Katsuki gets so angry that he feels he’s about to throw up. He actually closes his hand into fists, ready to punch the fucker’s teeth out. But the moment he’s about to raise his fist, Midoriya calls him out.

“Katsuki? What is this new game Izuku is talking about to the media?” he asks, curious, and when he notices the tense mood between the two streamers, he looks at them confused. “I’m sorry… Am I interrupting something?”

That helps to break Katsuki out of his murderous intent. “No. It’s nothing. Let’s go, I’ll show you the game in one of the try-out stations.”

The rest of the day passes in a similar fashion — Shigaraki continues to flirt with an oblivious Deku while Katsuki watches and seethes. When the organizers finally tell them they are free to go, Katsuki breathes in relief. He just wants this whole shitty day to be over with so he can snuggle with Deku in bed and forget everything that happened.

Luck isn’t on Katsuki’s side, though.

“Kacchan! Dad wants to take us to dinner!” Izuku says with his beautiful smile, that usually brings Katsuki so much joy.

He almost forgot Deku hasn’t had any chance to talk to his own father the whole day. And he looks so happy. Izuku is overjoyed with the very few interactions he already had with his father — who seems to be a really cool guy who honestly wants to know more about his son’s career. Katsuki can’t steal that away from them. Both Midoriyas have so little time to spend together, Katsuki can’t get in their way.

“Why don’t you and he go alone?” he offers. “I’m really tired and I think you two have a lot to catch up with each other.”

“Are you sure?” Izuku asks, frowning. “I could go back with you and-”

“No. No way you’re missing any more time with your dad, nerd. Just go, alright?” Katsuki gives a gentle kiss on Izuku’s forehead. “I’ll order room service and go to sleep early. We can talk more tomorrow.”

“Fine… If Kacchan wants that…” Izuku sounds uncertain but he won’t argue with Katsuki. Then, with a parting hug, Izuku goes away with his father, and Katsuki trails back alone to his hotel room, cursing his whole day.

In the end, Katsuki didn't even see Izuku return after dinner with his father. He was already deeply asleep when that happened. But the next morning, Katsuki had the chance of seeing Deku with one of his brightest smiles.

"Kacchan! It was great! Dad was really proud of me! He even said he was proud of watching me give interviews! Can you believe it? He said he could never talk in public like that and that he thinks it's amazing how I'm brave enough to do it! Oh, and he brought me gifts from Japan! I need to show you! He brought a lot of All Might merch because he remembered it was my favorite anime when I was a kid!" Izuku excitedly blabbed away about his father, sticking one word inside the other as he tried to convey how great his time with his dad had been.

This brought a bittersweet feeling to Katsuki's heart. He loved knowing his boyfriend is so happy and had a special time with his father. But, yesterday had been an awful day for Katsuki and all he wanted was to cuddle with his boyfriend and forget all that happened.

"Dad wants me to show him my favorite games at the event today! I was thinking we could go see that one you were-"

"Actually, Deku, I think I'll have to walk the floor with Shitty Hair and the idiots today," Katsuki grumbled, awkwardly. "They're always on my case about talking to more prospect sponsors and we should do some PR for the gaming house…"

That was bullshit. Katsuki never did any of these things and he hates having to do them — but for some reason, he just couldn't picture himself following Deku around the whole day at the event without pulling the mood down. He was still feeling grumpy and annoyed, and Katsuki didn't want to get in the way of Deku and his father's bonding.

"Oh… Right… Do you want me to-" Izuku even tried offering to accompany him, but Katsuki shut him down.

"No, there's no need. You and your old man go have some fun, and I and the idiots will work for a change."

Turned out that this was a bad decision. Not seeing Izuku the whole day, having to put up with stupid small talk for marketing workers, and seeing Mina and Kirishima being lovey-dovey just made Katsuki's mood sink even lower. He did his best to suck it up and put out a proper public persona, but this drained him quickly and, by the middle of the afternoon, he was ready to go home and not think back to this weekend every again.

However, he couldn't. His and Deku's flight was just tomorrow morning — scheduled to make sure Izuku and his father would have as much time together as possible — so the best Katsuki could do was to hide away in one of the VIP lounges and pray no extra came to bother him. His friends understood his need to stay on his own for a while and left Katsuki in peace, but not everyone was that kind.

"It seems like someone isn't the favorite toy anymore."

Shigaraki's voice instantly makes Katsuki's anger rise, so he closes his eyes and wishes the fucker to just disappear. The lounge is full of people from the industry and Katsuki can't start a fight in front of everyone.

"Deku must be really over your farse too. I knew you couldn't keep pretending for long."

"Get the fuck away from me," Katsuki hisses. "You disgust me."

"I disgust you? Really? Should I remember you're not that different from me, KEM? We both are the pariah of the gaming world — and we both want to fuck Deku," Shigaraki taunts him with a mean smirk.

"I'm nothing like you, asshole!" Katsuki gets up from the couch, ready to punch Shigaraki like he's been meaning to do since yesterday.

"But you are. You may think you have the fans and sponsors fooled with your 'good boyfriend' act, but I know who you really are. You're violent, and angry, and mean, and-"

"No, you're wrong!" Izuku's voice interrupts Shigaraki's little monologue, surprising both of them. "Kacchan is amazing! He's smart, funny, and handsome! And he's not fake!"

And then, under the bewildered eyes of everyone in the room, Deku stomps towards Shigaraki and punches him in the stomach.

"Humpf!" Shigaraki bends in pain.

"Stay away from Kacchan!" Izuku warns before grabbing Katsuki's hand and pulling him away from the scene.

Katsuki lets himself be dragged by his boyfriend through the maze of hallways, completely bewildered by what just happened. All the while, Izuku mumbles under his breath furious, "I can't believe the nerve! How could he be so mean?!"

"Deku, Deku!" Katsuki calls his boyfriend when he breaks out of his frozen state. They stop on a small dark corner of a less-used hallway to talk. "You punched him!"

"Of course! He was being mean to you!" Izuku has fire in his eyes and Katsuki feels the burning need to kiss him — so he does. A quick, harsh peck on the lips that tries to express the myriad of feelings going on through him at the moment.

"You're fucking crazy, nerd," he whispers at awe.

"I couldn't let him talk to you like that," Izuku pouts. "He was taking advantage that Kacchan is too much of a good guy to put him in his place."

"I-..." Katsuki shakes his head. "You're the only one who would ever consider me a good guy…"

Izuku rolls his eyes. "Don't be silly, Kacchan. You're a good guy. Sure, you yell at your computer sometimes, but you'd never actually be mean or violent to someone."

“Well, I guess you’re the violent one on this relationship now,” he teases with a smile, hugging Izuku closer.

“I hope you like bad boys,” Izuku whispers before closing in for a sweet, short kiss. Unfortunately, they can’t get lost on each other since there are still people walking by them and it breaks the mood.

“Hey, what about your father?” Katsuki asks, frowning, when they separate. “Did we leave him behind?”

“No, his flight got anticipated and he had to leave,” Izuku answers, pouting.

“Sorry to hear that, nerd.” He gently brushes Izuku’s hair. “I know you were excited to spend time with him.”

“It’s a bit sad, but we had a great day together,” Izuku says with a small smile. “And I was missing you too. We could barely talk these last few days…”

“We can make up for that later,” Katsuki promises.

“We can make up for that now! Let’s go back to the hotel. I need to show you the gifts dad brought us from Japan!”

“Us?” he frowns confused. “I thought the gifts were for you.”

“They were, but there are a few items I know you’re going to love so you can keep it!” Izuku says with an easy smile.

Katsuki shakes his head. “Nerd… I can’t accept it. It’s stuff your dad brought to you because you love it.”

“But I love you more,” Izuku answers simply. “Dad understands that. He said I picked a great boyfriend.”

Overwhelmed, Katsuki pulls Izuku back to a tight hug. “You’re fucking unfair, nerd,” he grumbles. “You lucky I love you so fucking much.”

“Yes, the luckiest,” Izuku agrees, hugging Katsuki back.

In the end, that event solidified Katsuki's and Izuku’s certainty that the best part of gaming events is chilling out together at their hotel room afterwards.

Chapter End Notes

Again, thank you Cracker for making me write more for this story!
It's always fun to make Izuku punch people xD

Hope you all like it! ❤❤❤
